The Kingston is the largest member of the Autohaus campervan family and is based upon the larger L3H2 Fiat Ducato, providing more living space than its VW campervan counterparts. This model was developed to provide customers with a true 4 berth campervan with 4 travelling seats and 3-point seatbelts (something that few manufacturers offer). The Kingston features a fully sealed washroom with integrated sink and sealed aluminium door. This overcomes the need to use a shower curtain which is used in traditional campervans of this size. The spacious layout also provides two separate seating areas, one in the front and one in the rear, both of which convert into double beds. The kitchen provides full cooking facilities which, along with the bathroom, are always accessible (day or night). The Kingston suits those looking for a more spacious campervan that can transport and sleep 4 people as standard.
